Alabama Tax Relief Offered to Tropical Storm Fay Victims

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama Department of Revenue (ADOR) announced today that it will offer Alabama filing relief for Florida residents affected by Tropical Storm Fay who cannot meet their Alabama tax filing obligations.

The Florida disaster areas designated for Alabama's tax relief include the same geographical areas as those designated for federal tax relief. (Reference FL 2008-23, Aug. 27, 2008, at www.irs.gov.)

The Alabama tax relief offered allows affected taxpayers until Nov. 17, 2008, to file certain Alabama tax returns that have an original or extended due dates falling between Aug. 18, 2008, and Nov. 17, 2008. This relief includes:

- Corporate estimated tax returns due Sept. 15, 2008.
- Individual estimated tax returns due Sept. 15, 2008.
- Corporate extended income tax returns due Sept. 15, 2008.
- Individual extended income tax returns due Oct. 15, 2008.

Late filing penalties will be waived for those affected taxpayers seeking this relief. Alabama's tax laws have no provision for the waiver of interest.

Taxpayers who are eligible for the relief should add the following designation in red ink at the top of any Alabama "paper" returns they file: "FAY."
